Our organisation aims to promote education and work as well as to increase the population in rural areas by providing more affordable housing, encouraging city dwellers to move to these areas. On the other hand, to improve the academic training of children and young people by providing scholarships. The objective is to increase digital training in rural areas to ensure that citizens acquire essential technological skills, thus promoting their integration into the digital economy.

In addition, it seeks to improve the technological infrastructure in these areas to facilitate access to the internet and digital tools. It is crucial to provide clear and accessible information on available opportunities, both educational and employment, thus promoting tourism and cultural and economic exchanges between the city and the countryside.

This initiative will allow for inclusive and sustainable development, strengthening rural communities and creating a bridge between urban and rural areas.

In conclusion, improving digital training, technological infrastructure and the dissemination of opportunities in rural areas is essential to integrate their citizens into the digital economy.

These actions, together with the promotion of tourism and city-rural exchanges, will contribute to inclusive and sustainable development, strengthening rural communities and creating a solid bridge to urban areas.
